

Work at VivaScope

One team. One goal. We want to save time, with innovative medical products & workflows. VivaScope GmbH is a Munich-based company that has been operating under the umbrella of MAVIG GmbH for 15 years. Since January 2021 we are operating as an independent company. Are you as fascinated by medical technology as we are? Our confocal laser scanning microscopes are changing cancer diagnostics with state-of-the-art technology - for patients and doctors worldwide. And that's exactly why we need your support.

Goal-oriented. Strategic. Visionary. Our "development department" is looking for a strategic visionary to take our products to the next level through continuous development and to train internally and externally with great enthusiasm - Be our next VivaScope product expert!

Product Manager (m/f/d)

Your Tasks:

- You research market requirements and trends to elaborate relevant product requirements for product development
- You will assist in the product development of VivaScope medical products
- You develop to an expert for VivaScope products and their application
- You function as an interface between sales, marketing, service and development
- You conduct internal and external user trainings.
- You test newly developed software and hardware and create test reports
- You support and advise our customers and our sales department on product-specific issues
- You participate in national and international congresses
- You create and maintain the product documentation

Your Profile:

- Completed studies with a natural science or engineering background or corresponding professional experience
- Good technical understanding, knowledge in handling microscopes and/or software development is an advantage
- Organisational skills, ability to work under pressure and high flexibility as well as strong communication and teamwork skills
- Business fluent English and good written and spoken German, other foreign languages are an advantage
- Structured, self-reliant, reliable and independent way of working
- Confident handling of MS Office
- Willingness to travel approx. 15%, driving licence class B

What We Offer:

The support of a professional team, intensive supervision, as well as all the opportunities of an expanding, internationally oriented company with flat hierarchies and short communication channels. You can expect a modern, flexible working environment in new, well-equipped offices with the option of home office. International and growing company, with useful technologies to change diagnosis for patients worldwide.

If you enjoy working in a technically demanding environment and are interested in varied and complex tasks, we look forward to receiving your informative application documents by e-mail in PDF format, including details of your salary expectations.

- Flexible working & homeoffice
- Modern offices
- Young and diverse team from different nations
- Individual opportunities for further training
- Staff events
- Short decision-making-processes and short communication channels
- 30 days vacation
- Company pension plan
and more corporate benefits

VivaScope GmbH · Stahlgruberring 5 · 81829 Munich · www.vivascope.de
Michael Merz · Tel.: +49 (0) 89 / 4 20 960 · EMail: bewerbung\(at\)vivascope.comvivascope.com)